Department of Human Services, Housing and Community Building (also known as the Office of Housing) is a Victorian State Government agency that reports to the Minister for Housing and is responsible for providing housing and homelessness assistance as well as community building initiatives.

The division adopts evidence-based research that supports effective policy and planning. It undertakes ongoing research & evaluation in housing and homelessness policy and programs to assist policy review and development. It also works in partnership to increase housing options for low-income Victorians and strengthen communities. Its vision is to ensure Victorians live in vibrant communities and have access to secure, affordable and appropriate housing.

The Department of Planning and Community Development (DPCD) undertakes ongoing research into housing and residential land development issues in order to better inform decision-makers and communities about current and impending housing trends. Monitoring and analysing of this demand and supply of housing is important for ensuring appropriate and well located housing continues to be available for all Victorians.
