This studio aims to analyse a number of small scale public realm opportunities within the highly urbanized suburb of Fitzroy.

With a lack of viable open space in the urban environment, we are forced to look for new sites to create public parks within the wider public realm. This can be in the form of reinterpreting urban infrastructure, inhabiting rooftops, demolition of existing buildings and road closures.

Melbourne 2030 and Melbourne at 5 Million focuses on Urban Intensification. How will this reveal new opportunities for the public realm?

The first half of the studio will concentrate on the construction of temporary 1:1 sculptural installations in your chosen space, guided by a simultaneous exploration and analysis of your own personal spatial philosophy.

The second half of the studio will be about deriving a response to your investigations and exploring design scenarios for your chosen site.

The studio will be as much about the process of unfolding and revealing your own personal relationship to urban spaces as it is about redefining the typologies within the public realm.
