

SNAKES AMIDST THE WORKSTATIONS:

The rise of the corporate psychopath
in the Information Age

A corporate psychopath is classified as being an egocentric person in a management position who is devoid of empathy and has a near total disregard for social responsibility. Ponder the role of technology in the spread of this modern malady with RMIT academic John Lenarcic in conversation with Associate Professor Mike Faris (RMIT Health Sciences) and John Batros (Eudaemonia HR Consultants Pty Ltd).

Wed May 30th 2007 at 7pm
The Stork Hotel,
504 Elizabeth St, Melb.

FREE ADMISSION

Phone: 9663 6237

www: storkhotel.com

E-mail: admin@storkhotel.com

