Can your computer kill you? Software bugs have cost companies millions of dollars to rectify. On the rare occasion, they can cause the loss of life. What can be done to create zero-defect systems? Explore the ghastly glitches of the hi-tech era with RMIT academic John Lenarcic in conversation with Professor Ross Smith (RMIT School of Business Information Technology).