Professor Joe Camilleri
Professor of International Relations and Director Centre for Dialogue – La Trobe University

What are the challenges posed for education by a world that is increasingly unified in a technological and economic sense, yet remains deeply divided by race, ethnicity, culture, religion and political ideology?

How does education respond to this challenge?

What are the insights, methods and resources that the dialogue of faiths and cultures can bring to this Herculean task?

RMIT Chaplaincy

RMIT Chaplaincy enables students and staff to connect their educational experience with the wisdom of the major religions and spiritual traditions. These sacred sources are found in word and image, lives and rituals across the planet’s history.

With a team of trained chaplains, plus visiting spiritual leaders from a variety of traditions, we provide pastoral care and resources.

The Chaplaincy also offers lectures, conversations, performances, gatherings (usually held at the Spiritual Centre) that challenge, comfort and enrich the depth and texture of University experience. These activities aim to connect the themes of personal and corporate faith with issues of heart and soul, justice and mercy, conviction and community. We welcome you to all our gatherings.
