Have you ever dreamed of combining travel with your studies? If so, Study Abroad may be the program for you. Study Abroad programs allow you to complete part of your degree in Australia. That’s right, you can combine one or two semesters of study at RMIT University with your studies at home. The end result: you graduate from your home institute with an Australian experience.

But why Australia? When you think of Australia, what comes to mind? Is it golden bush settings, unique wildlife or spectacular beaches? That is the image of Australia that is often portrayed—the outback and the great outdoors. However, if your idea of an Australian experience is to venture slowly into it from the safe confines of a sophisticated city—then Melbourne is the place for you. Melbourne offers visitors easy access to all of the unique characteristics (and characters) of Australia.

Furthermore, enrol at RMIT University and you will enjoy the convenience of studying in the heart of the city. You won’t find kangaroos hopping through the streets (on most days anyway), but you will find a vibrant, lively, multicultural campus.

We look forward to saying g’day and welcoming you to Melbourne and RMIT.
What is Study Abroad?
Study Abroad programs are designed for students who want to experience the Australian student lifestyle first-hand, but want to complete their studies, and graduate, from their home institute. Instead of opting to undertake a full degree at RMIT University, as a Study Abroad student you can combine one or two semesters at RMIT with your studies at home. This way you are still able to experience the Australian lifestyle without having to commit to a three to five year degree away from home.

What can I study?
You can choose from any of RMIT’s study disciplines—there are no restrictions in course choice. However, many students do choose to combine courses that contribute to their major studies at their home institution with some of RMIT University’s general interest electives.

What can I get out of Study Abroad?
It is expected that upon completion of the Study Abroad program you will have widened your educational experiences, improved your employment prospects, and developed skills that will serve you well in an international workplace.

Specialist Subjects
RMIT University ensures you have a truly international experience by offering you a range of specialist courses which include not only academic content but also a combination of social and culturally-specific activities.

Subjects include:
- Modern Australian Society
- Contemporary Australian Politics
- Introduction to Australian Society

Introduction to Australian Society
This course will deepen your knowledge of Australian society. You will study how Australian life has changed over the last 200 years, and compare those changes and characteristics with your home society. The course begins with a three-day camp in rural Victoria where you will experience Australian rural life first-hand. The rest of the course is a balance of personal (such as tourist activities) and academic (lecture and tutorial) experiences.
Areas of Study

RMIT University is divided into three academic portfolios:

- Business
- Design and Social Context
- Science, Engineering and Technology

You can enrol in any RMIT course, so long as you meet the academic requirements. The major study areas available at RMIT University include:

Melbourne, Australia

Melbourne, one of the world's most liveable cities, is also Australia's cultural hub. As the events capital of Australia, Melbourne is a sophisticated, modern and friendly city which also has a reputation for embracing the arts. Home to many cafés, theatres, galleries, sporting venues and a network of parks and gardens—Melburnians always find something to do. What’s more, RMIT University is located in the centre of it all!

As one of Australia’s largest dual sector universities, RMIT provides education to over 60,000 students, including 20,000 international (onshore and offshore) students. Approximately 250 students from key source countries such as Germany, the USA and Mexico participate in the Study Abroad program each year.

Occupying two large blocks in the centre of Melbourne, RMIT offers close proximity to public transport, a large range of shopping complexes and multicultural food, and an exciting social life provided by the city’s main theatres, entertainment venues and cafes.

‘RMIT offers a great range of subjects in every area you can think of—especially in my area of interest, Computer Science. RMIT provided a fantastic infrastructure, and offered many subjects that we don’t even have in Germany. I was also presented with great opportunities to participate in the newest developments in industry and research programs, and experienced very good mentoring by the tutors. I definitely learnt more last semester than ever before. Even though I found RMIT’s university system a lot harder and more intense, all the work was worth it!’

Mareike Lattermann, Germany

Origins
RMIT University was founded in 1887, not long after Melbourne was established by European settlers. In 2007 we celebrated our 120th anniversary.

Student Diversity
Over 100 countries are represented in RMIT’s international student population. These students bring vibrancy, diversity and fresh perspectives to the university.

Global Passport
RMIT University is an international university known for providing its students with a global passport. Our learning and teaching is informed by international best practice and as a result an RMIT qualification is well regarded globally. Graduates are presented with many opportunities for work and professional acceptance.

Onshore Campus Locations
• City
• Bundoora
• Brunswick

The majority of Study Abroad students undertake classes at RMIT’s City campus.

Offshore Campus Locations
RMIT International University Vietnam (RIUV)
• Ho Chi Minh City - South Saigon
• Hanoi

Study tours of RIUV are conducted regularly. Study Abroad students can also opt to study at RIUV.

RMIT is about innovation—new ideas and their application. The university is an established leader in design, information technology, business, communication, education, engineering, science and the medical sciences.
The first point of contact for Study Abroad students is the Education Abroad Unit (EAU), which can assist with:
- Orientation
- Enrolment
- Study advice
- Health and safety tips
- Social activities (including a ‘Welcome Party’)
- Excursions
- Ongoing support throughout the semester

In addition to the support provided by the EAU, Study Abroad students also have access to all of the services and facilities available to other RMIT students, including:
- Gymnasium
- Computer laboratories (free Internet, email access and wireless access)
- Extensive library facilities
- Clubs and societies
- RMIT Student Union
- Arrival Service

RMIT Union
RMIT Union provides a great social setting for students to develop new skills and make new friends. Activities available include:
- Exploring Aboriginal culture
- Horse riding along the beach
- Swimming with dolphins
- Ski trips
- Tours to central Australia
- Exhibitions
- Concerts

International Student Information and Support
International Student Information and Support (ISIS) provides advice, information and support to international students and staff at RMIT University. ISIS offers all international students:
- Confidential consultation and advice
- Support and information
- Orientation and farewell (returning home) programs
- Cultural celebrations
- Activities to meet other students from similar cultures
- Support and work with student representative groups
- Social gatherings, activities and workshops at the City, Bundoora and Brunswick campuses

Housing Advisory Service
RMIT’s Housing Advisory Service provides information, advice and assistance on finding off-campus accommodation (RMIT does not have on-campus accommodation).
RMIT programs have established a strong reputation in Australia and globally due to the university’s relationship with more than 100 overseas partners.

If your home institution is a recognised RMIT partner, your International Office will be able to provide you with details about the application process, the Study Abroad program at RMIT, and may even be able to connect you with past or current students who have completed the program.

RMIT also offers a number of exchange opportunities for those wanting to study in Australia. To determine eligibility to apply for an exchange program, you can obtain advice from the International Office of your home institution.

My major is Mechatronics Engineering. As a graduate engineer with a qualification in automation processes I will work in industries related to automated manufacturing in my country or overseas.

This is my first overseas study program. I chose RMIT because I wanted to study in Australia, and RMIT offers the courses that I need to take to obtain credits for my major at my home university in Mexico, which has a study abroad agreement with RMIT.

I have enjoyed Melbourne since the first day I arrived. It has been an excellent opportunity to do many things that I didn’t do before at home, such as meeting people from many different backgrounds, the cultural and sporting activities that take place during the year, and the nightlife it offers during the weekends.

I did a lot of research comparing RMIT with other universities before I made the decision about where to study. RMIT came out on top! It has great facilities including its own radio station (SYN FM) and television station (RMIT TV) which is great for me as my area of study is Communications Media.

Tuition Fees
For a full listing of RMIT’s tuition fees, please refer to the following website:

www.rmit.edu.au/international/programfees

Health Insurance
Overseas Student Health Cover (OSHC)
All students who hold, or are planning to hold, a Student Visa are required to maintain valid Overseas Student Health Cover (OSHC) at all times. This is a condition of the Student Visa.

Please note: Norwegian students with Norwegian National Insurance Scheme cover and Swedish students with international cover arranged through the Swedish National Board of Student Aid (CSN) are covered for medical expenses in Australia and do not need OSHC.

Employment
International students studying in Australia on a Student Visa are able to work in Australia once they have obtained a work permit. A work permit can only be obtained once you have commenced your studies in Australia (a Student Visa is granted with a “no work” condition). A work permit allows you to work for up to 20 hours per week during study blocks and full-time during semester breaks.

What supporting documentation do I have to provide?

You will need to supply the following:

- Certified copies of your current academic transcripts, including previous results from transfer institutions (translated into English as required).
- Certification of English language test results. Statement must show your TOEFL or IELTS score (if English is not your first language). RMIT University accepts IELTS or TOEFL scores taken within 24 months of the proposed commencement of study date. For example, if a student applies for the July 2008 intake and their IELTS or TOEFL test result is dated August 2006, RMIT will accept the test score as it was taken within the 24 month period prior to July 2008.
- One A4 page personal statement explaining why you want to study in Australia and at RMIT University.
- One passport photograph.
- Disability support details (if relevant).

If you are applying for a creative design–based course, please check if you need to supply additional materials, such as a folio.

Please refer to the following websites:

1. www.rmit.edu.au/international/supplementary_forms
2. www.rmit.edu.au/international/studyabroad/apply

Do I need a student visa?

International students will not be able to enter Australia without a Student Visa. It is important to note that students studying on a Student Visa are subject to Australian Government regulations. Students in Australia who are holding a different visa subclass must contact DIAC (Department of Immigration and Citizenship) regarding their eligibility to study.

Do I need to have an interview?

If an interview is required, details will be included in your offer letter (this is issued after you have submitted your application).

Are you ready to apply?

If you are currently enrolled at a university outside Australia and have successfully completed at least one year of study, congratulations! You are eligible to apply for RMIT’s Study Abroad program.

Are there any other academic requirements?

Applicants are also expected to have a good academic history (North American applicants require a GPA of 3.0 or higher). Your personal statement and extra curricular activities are also taken into consideration when your application is assessed.

Upper level classes at RMIT often require specific prerequisites to be met before enrolment. Therefore it is very important that you discuss your program with your student counsellor before applying.

Are there any English language requirements?

Only if you are applying from a non-English speaking country. If so, the minimum English language requirement for Study Abroad students is:

- IELTS: an average score of 6.5 with no band less than 6.0
- TOEFL: 580 paper-based, 237 computer-based (TWE: 4.5), or 92 (overall, with minimum 20 in all sections) Internet based (IBT)

Students applying from Mexico, Scandinavia or Germany may be eligible for alternate English language assessments.

RMIT has an English language training centre. To find out more, visit this website:

www.rmitenglishworldwide.com

I meet the above requirements. How do I apply?

1. Select your courses (students generally enrol in four courses per semester, totalling 48 credit points*)
2. Complete the Application Form
3. Prepare any supporting documentation
4. Submit your application

If your home institution is a recognised RMIT partner, your International Office will be able to provide you with details about the application process.

www.rmit.edu.au/international/studyabroad

*Please note: full-time enrolment in RMIT’s Study Abroad program constitutes 48 credit points. If you cancel courses and end up enroling in only 36 credit points or less per semester, you are still expected to pay for the full 48 credit point load.
